Wireless Timing

Last updated: - 14th October 2010

- 1. Ensure Wireless is switched on and bring up wireless connections. On Windows XP/Vista a message should pop up suggesting that there are Wireless connections are available.
- 2. Connect to the timing Wireless Network, you have two options:-

Linksys HKTiming

Both are exactly the same, however if you are having issues with signal, please change to the other.

- 3. Once connected go to your internet browser (Internet Explorer, Firefox or Opera) and type the following...

<http://192.168.1.250/>

- 4. Your web browser will display a landing page, click on the live timing link to display the latest times.

Press F11 to view the timings in full screen.

Note: - If the race is stopped at any point, times may display incorrect after the race has started. To ensure your laptop is displaying the correct times, please Contact race control.
